

BassFit Wireless: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ds2\_SCcxT6U

A woman is asleep in bed under covers when suddenly her alarm titled “Morning Training” goes off. The camera pans to her nightstand, where her phone alarm is going off next to her orange in-ear headphones. She rolls over and taps the phone to turn off the alarm.

The video cuts to a shot behind a man with all-black workout clothes and a backpack, walking into an empty gym.

The video then cuts to a bird’s eye view of an SUV with a bike stored on a roof rack, driving on a hillside full of lively green trees next to a large body of water. It then cuts to a man getting out of the SUV on the side of the hill with all green trees, grass, and nature behind him.

The video returns to the girl who woke to her alarm, she grabs her headphones, clips them around her neck and steps outside in running clothes.

The video quickly shows the man in the gym sitting on a workout bench putting his headphones around his neck, and then the man from the SUV zipping up his outdoor shirt, preparing for a bike ride.

The video then splits into 3 side by side frames, with each of the 3 folks from before putting in their in-ear headphones with the words “Trifit Design” showing.

The video cuts to the woman wearing headphones, running from left to right of the screen, in the middle of an open area with a statue, palace, and buildings in the background. It then shows her arriving at a park dense with trees, and birds on green grass. She pauses as she puts her hands on her knees to take a breath. She reaches up to the controls on the headphone band to press the button(s). The text “3-button Playback Control” is shown. She takes off running again with the trees and a park in the background.

The video cuts to the man in the gym jump roping, and the text “Sweat & Weather Resistant” appears.

The video cuts to the man on his bike tightening the headphone straps behind his neck to better secure them. Text “Cable Manager” is shown. He takes off on the bike, working his way uphill on a road with trees lining both sides. The camera switches between bird’s-eye behind him, in front of him, and from within the trees looking at him.

The video returns to the woman running where a phone ring is heard, and she answers using the buttons on her headphone cable and she says ‘Hi’. Text “Music & Calls” is shown.

The video cuts back to the man in the gym doing power cleans with a heavyweight. He drops the weight and magnetically clasps his headphones around his neck on his chest. The text “Magnetic Closure” is shown.

The camera returns to a bird’s-eye view of the bike rider, zooming into him as he pulls out his phone and additionally pairs the headphones to his watch. The text “Pair multiple devices” appears as his watch displays “Connecting to V-MODA BassFit” and a green check appears on his watch showing a successful connection. The camera returns to a bird’s-eye view in front of the bike rider face on as he pedals quickly uphill and around tight corners.

The camera quickly switches between all 3 as they continue their individual activities.

The video then returns a single frame that splits into 3 individual frames, showing a zoomed-in headshot of each person taking a breath and looking out ahead of them.

The camera cuts to the closing screen showing the text “BassFit Wireless” and “Powerful Sound, Power Through.” With the headphone model on the left side with a black background. The headphones are stationary but switch between the 2 models and the multiple colour options (black and orange, or white and grey.)

The Red V-MODA logo on a black background is shown.